Fruit and vegetable union heads refuse to accept teamsters' union charter

Executive of the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Unions (TLC) this afternoon announced that it had decided not to accept the charter from the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

A spokesman for the directors stated that it was felt by accepting the IBT charter at this time, the packinghouse workers would "... likely have to be certified under the new union and therefore would be subjecting the membership of the federation to a three-way split in the valley." He added, "We feel that by remaining with the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Unions (TLC) for which we now hold certification, we would be avoiding a split at this time."

Another well-informed source stated the FFWU executive was split 5-2 on the issue. He added that the "three-way split" referred to was possibility of United Packinghouse Workers of America, and the Teamsters' Union raising the membership in the FFWU.

It was learned from another source that the general membership of the FFWU recently approved the proposed affiliation with the Teamsters' union after the issue had been put to a vote. Sunday's meeting, however, vetoed the whole thing.

Recently Russ Leckie was appointed Teamsters' representative for the valley.

The matter is expected to cause a hot debate when the annual meeting of the FFWU is held in Penikese January 20-21-22.

During the recent packinghouse strike, the powerful Teamsters' Union came to the assistance of fruit workers and contributed financially toward the strike fund.

Growers request probe into present system of controlled marketing

RUTLAND—Appointment of a special committee of agricultural experts to study the present controlled marketing system is favored by the Rutland local of British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association.

Purpose of the investigation would be to ascertain if growers are receiving a fair return for their produce under the present system of marketing.

This is the second fruit growers' local to go on record favoring some kind of a probe into the fruit industry. Last week Penikese growers requested a Royal Commission to investigate all phases of the fruit growing industry. Resolutions will be submitted to the annual BCFGA convention to be held in Vernon next month.

Supporters of the Rutland resolution were not in favor of a Royal Commission, but thought that a survey could be made by a group of economic experts from the UBC department of agriculture.

This is the second time that a fruit local has requested a Royal Commission to investigate the industry. The Westbank local made a similar request, but the resolution was defeated at last year's BCFGA convention.

Several Rutland growers strongly criticized the handling of the packinghouse strike earlier in the year, and expressed the opinion that there would not have been a tie-up had the industry made reasonable concessions.

Meeting also voted against a proposal to allow the three-party contract to be amended to provide for compensation for losses resulting in the strike, and any future strike involving the industry.

NEW OFFICERS

Art Pekrul was elected the new chairman of the local, succeeding Fred Stevens who has served for several years, and who declined to run again. George Whittaker was named vice-chairman and Eric Wood was elected secretary-treasurer.

Former civic employee still missing

No trace has been found of Jack O'Neill, former assistant accountant at the city hall, wanted in connection with the disappearance of tax receipt money.

O'Neill chartered an airplane to the coast on October 18, after he started off to the bank with the city money. His abandoned car was later found outside the telephone office. RCMP recovered $41,000 in cheques in the vehicle, but $6,300 in cash is missing.

Road detour in effect all winter

The Oyama-Winfield section of Highway 97 has been closed for the winter for reconstruction.

Clearing operations have been completed and rock-cutting and filling have been started on the three-mile stretch being widened.

Work will continue through the winter and it is probable that the section will be paved next summer.

Meanwhile, motorists will detour through lower Oyama around the east side of Woods Lake to Winfield, a distance of about five miles. Most of this section is paved and is in good condition.

Clearing has also started on a four-mile stretch of the Vernon-Armstrong highway, preparatory to widening.

At least a heifer won't bite!

At least two local residents unanimously agree that a zoo is possibly the best place to keep a monkey.

Couple of weeks ago, Gayland Shows donated a pet baby monkey to Kelowna Gyro Club for their annual radio auction. Gyro Bill Baker took delivery of the quadrumanous mammal; put it in the rear trunk of his car, and slammed the lid shut. Fifteen minutes later when he re-opened the trunk, he found the monkey had ripped out all the electrical wires leading to the rear car lights. Baker also sustained scratches to the face and arms when the animal leaped into his arms.

In the radio auction sale held later, Dave Le Beau, local used car salesman, proved to be the highest bidder. He paid $42.50.

Le Beau proudly took the money home, after being assured it was house-broken. Everything went fine for a couple of days, and then it turned on his wife and bit her.

Needless to say, Le Beau made short work of getting rid of the monkey, and its temporary residence is again Gayland Shows. He may retrieve it next spring.

Gyros plan their second radio auction Friday night, and among the 110 articles which will go to the highest bidders, is a month-old Guernsey heifer, guaranteed not to scratch or bite. It was donated by William Gaudreau, local farmer.

"Operation snow removal"

Cold comfort

There have been worse Novembers in the past

Local residents who have been besieged by snow the past month, most of which came in the wake of a record-breaking cold snap, can draw cold comfort from the fact that there have been worse Novembers in the history of Kelowna.

Weather records which date back to 1899 show that in 1919 there was a record of 19 inches, with 18 recorded in 1927. The top honors, however, go to 1937, when 20 inches fell during the month.

The weather has brought many problems, but a city public works official reported that skilful manipulating of men and machinery have kept the additional cost to the taxpayers at a negligible figure.

Kelownians awakened on Remembrance Day to find the ground blanketed in snow, and a cold wind howling in off the lake. The mercury had dropped to one above, and it felt like at least twenty below.

FUEL SUPPLIES LOW

The city was caught unprepared, for the most part, and fuel supplies were at a normal fall level in most houses. Very few cars were winterized, many houses were without storm windows, and many outside plumbing attachments were still turned on.

During the week-end which followed the Friday Remembrance Day, the mercury dropped to four below, and the garage men who were open in the city were rushed off their feet, trying to cope with the rash of cracked blocks, cracked radiators, frozen cars, and late-starting winterization jobs.

Plumbers and fuel merchants had to keep hopping, also as heads of households dug into their pockets for the extra fuel they needed, and put in urgent calls to thaw out water pipes, and replace damaged fixtures. While no really serious damage resulted, there were many very trouble-prone cases, bringing consequent hardship.

Following on the wake of the cold snap, which lasted for a week, the snow started to fall, and has fallen with monotonous regularity ever since.

Slippery roads have caused a great deal of pushing and shoving, but the rash of damaged fenders and grill work has not been as heavy as expected. Only one auto body shop reported any increase, and this was mostly in the fender and grill damage, minor enough, but costly to repair and replace.

Okanagan bridge story appears in U.S. papers

Kelownians visiting the United States have frequently remarked over the lack of Canadian news in American newspapers.

However, the proposed bridge across Okanagan Lake was considered important enough for at least one U.S. paper to use the story.

Ernest Pearce, 605 Francis Ave., recently received a newspaper clipping from a friend, Fred Roberts, who lives in Seattle. Story was carried by Canadian Press.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts visited the Pearce family last summer, and were impressed with the Okanagan Valley.

City streets were no sooner clear of the unprecedented heavy snow when Mother Nature started dumping another load of white flakes this morning.

City crews did an excellent job in clearing the streets of the slushy snow, thanks to the efficient machinery shown in action in the above pictures. In some cities, last week's snow caused a terrific strain on budgets, but the local public works department stated "operation snow removal" was carried out at little cost to the taxpayers.

Last month a total of 16 inches of snow fell in the city.

W. W. Stewart elected by acclamation

GLENMORE—William Whitworth Stewart was elected councillor and police commissioner by acclamation to fulfill the one year unexpired term, caused by the resignation of Councillor P. R. Moubrey. Mr. Moubrey is contesting the reevehip in Saturday's election. Mr. Stewart has served continuously on the council since 1951.

Herbert T. Elford was elected school trustee by acclamation for a two year period. He has served as trustee since 1951.

The vacancy of police commissioner for a two year period has been filled by acclamation on the election of Victor Haddad who has been councillor since 1953.

Glenmore residents will go to the polls on December 10 at the municipal office to elect a reeve and two councillors.

The following candidates are standing for election:

FOR REEVE
Reeve Andrew Ritchie, who has been reeve continuously since 1951, and councillor from 1935 to 1938.

Philip Russell Moubrey, who has served as councillor from 1948 to 1955.

FOR COUNCIL
Robert Brian Emslie; Victor Haddad, who has served as councillor from 1953 to 1955; Andrew J. Runzer; R. A. Felix Sutton, who has served as councillor from 1951 to 1953.

Winfield man dies in crash

Cpl. Robert Offerdahl, only son of Mrs. Inez Offerdahl, of Winfield, was among seven people who were killed in an RCAF airplane crash at Montmedy, France on Saturday.

Born and educated in Winfield, he joined the airforce about six years ago. Mrs. Offerdahl's husband was killed in an automobile accident many years ago. The family is well-known in the Winfield district.

The transport plane, carrying 17 Canadians, crashed as it was making an approach at the Marville air base in bad weather. Six persons were instantly killed and eight injured. Two officers and a woman member of the RCAF escaped injury.

Cpl. Offerdahl was on the critically injured list and died later. The plane, a twin-engine Bristol freighter used to supply and ferry Canadians between bases in England and on the continent, came down in a clump of trees.

Majority favor construction of natural gas system here; residents will vote Thursday

Jubilee issue

Requests for additional copies of The Courier's Golden Jubilee issue are still coming in, but unfortunately this newspaper is unable to fulfill requests. Within a week after the publication, we were completely sold out, and back orders were only filled through subscribers returning extra copies they had on hand.

Latest enquiry comes from R. Randall, of Victoria, who is anxious to send the Jubilee edition to his brother in New Zealand. Mr. Randall explained that he and his brother spent several years in the Okanagan, working during the summer of 1900 for John Conroy.

If any subscriber has an extra copy of the Jubilee issue on hand, The Courier will mail it to the New Zealand resident, if the paper is brought to the office.

Total of 84.09 per cent of Kelowna residents are in favor of Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. constructing an underground gas distribution system in the city.

This was disclosed following a survey taken by The Courier during the past few days. Of those contacted 11.36 per cent were indefinite, while only 4.55 per cent were opposed. Many of those interviewed declined to commit themselves.

Of the people questioned, 33 per cent had past experience with gas—19 per cent in Alberta; nine per cent in Vancouver and five per cent in Europe.

Kelowna residents will go to the polls on Thursday to cast ballots on the natural gas franchise. If at least 60 per cent vote in favor of the plebiscite, local residents will be "cooking with gas" in 1957.

There will be no election for civic officers Mayor J. J. Ladd and Alder men Dick Parkinson, Jack Treadgold and Bob Knox were re-elected by acclamation.

Voting will take place in the health unit on Queensway from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Doug Herbert has been named returning officer.

OTHER DETAILS

Following are some of the additional details ascertained in The Courier survey:

A number of persons were reluctant to state whether or not they would revert immediately to natural gas because they have adopted a wait-and-see policy, the cost of the new heating being the main factor. Others were waiting patiently until after the natural gas plebiscite before switching from their present system of heating to a more satisfactory one. If the gas is brought in to Kelowna, that will be their choice.

Majority of people in favor of natural gas were definite in their opinions. Some thought of it from a personal point of view and others thought of it in the light of its benefits to Kelowna as a whole, particularly with regard to industry. As one gentleman said "It would be a big step backward if Kelowna rejected the natural gas."

DECIDING POINT

The convenience of the natural gas was the big deciding point for most Kelownians, particularly those who have had previous experience with gas. Carrying wood, coal, oil, and sawdust is eliminated and for the older citizens of Kelowna this is an appealing factor. One gentleman is quite elated over the fact that he is one jump ahead of everyone else. Using propane gas entirely in his home at present, it will take little expense or effort to switch over to the natural gas.

Of the people contacted, 31 per cent lived in Kelowna more than 20 years and the others ranged from just a few months to over 19 years.

Yule decorations

With Christmas just three weeks away, the Christmas decorations are beginning to appear, and signs of the forthcoming festivities are more numerous.

The city has given the birthday cake at the foot of Bernard Avenue a "new look", and it is now a "Merry Christmas" message to those who pass by there. The nativity scene on Queensway is partially completed, most of the erection accomplished the latter part of last week.

The lights on the streets will be going up this week, and next week-end should see the streets wearing their full holiday garb.

Local stores will also complete Christmas decorations this week.

Checks fire fighting equipment

As a fire fighter with the RCAF at Moose Jaw, Sask., Leading Aircraftman Warren C. Stratton, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stratton, 806 Coronation Avenue, must make frequent checks of fire fighting equipment. LAC Stratton, who resides with his wife in Moose Jaw, joined the air force in 1952 in Vancouver and took his trade training at Aylmer, Ont. He served with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles during the Second World War.

Gas almost assured

It was good news that came out of Washington last week when it was announced that the U.S. would permit Canada to export natural gas into that country. The news means that the British Columbia cities and British Columbia industry will be served with natural gas.

The British Columbia market is too small to carry the heavy cost of a pipeline alone. The larger American market had to be obtained in order that the B.C. cities might be served. After years of argument, the U.S. authorities have at last consented to the importation of Canadian gas. Work will commence on the pipeline almost immediately and in two years gas will be flowing out of the Peace River country.

While the effect on British Columbia will be tremendous, the Okanagan will also benefit. Provided the Okanagan cities approve the franchises of the Inland Natural Gas Company, a branch pipeline will be built from Kamloops through the Okanagan to serve the valley cities.

In this area, Kelowna and Peachland ratepayers will indicate next week whether or not they approve the respective franchises. In both cases there would appear no good reason for a negative vote. Both places should pass the bylaws by large majorities.

Exit the Big Bend

In recent months there have been certain indications that the Trans-Canada Highway between Revelstoke and Golden would be built along the CPR right-of-way and not follow the present route around the Big Bend. This week there was everything but an official announcement to this effect.

Hon. Robert Winters, federal minister of public works, indicated that Ottawa would be prepared to give some extra assistance on this section and said of the ninety miles, some twenty miles would be the entire responsibility of the federal government as it would go through Glacier National Park.

There are many reasons why this route should be chosen over the Big Bend. True, it will be costly to build but the overall cost may not be as great as the Big Bend. The mileage is ninety as against one hundred and ninety. The shorter route would be a terrific tourist attraction as it taps some of the most spectacular scenery in the country, whereas the Big Bend is generally unscenic and uninteresting. Beyond these facts, there is the maintenance cost and the vehicular operational costs to the public. There would be a hundred fewer miles of highway to maintain; a very considerable factor. There would also be a hundred less miles for a vehicle to travel between the two given points, Revelstoke and Golden, and at ten cents a mile, this would mean a saving of $10.00 per car and a much higher figure for trucks. These are factors to be seriously considered when building a new highway.

The die would seem to be cast: the Trans-Canada will take the short Rogers Pass route between Golden and Revelstoke. Of course, Victoria has not made the official announcement yet, but there have been enough indications that this will come in Victoria's own good time. It has been indicated that a satisfactory route has been found and, if this is so, the shorter route is the more desirable.

All-year round schools

(From U.S. News and World Report)

Many towns and cities in the United States, beset by acute class-room shortages, are facing this hard choice: more taxes for parents and other citizens, or less education for children.

One way out of the dilemma has been suggested: Make existing school buildings do extra duty. But the more communities look into such a plan, the further away they seem from a solution to the problem.

People now are wondering if there is waste in school operations. They are taking a hard second look at proposals, some tried, some untried, that boil down chiefly to these propositions:

Stagger three-month vacation periods all around the year. Then, in theory, schoolhouses can handle a third more students.

Lengthen the school day. Either make students work longer hours or put them on two, or even three shifts.

Draw out the school year to 11 months or more.

These proposals are getting attention in plans being laid for the White House Conference on Education set for November 28 through December 1. Two States, Washington and New Jersey, already have notified federal authorities that they are interested in the subject and may bring it up at the conference.

Thus it is probable that in the future you will be hearing more of all-year school, in one form or another, as a way of saving millions perhaps billions, in tax money at a time when construction costs per class-room average $35,000.

What is in the back of many individuals' minds was expressed by one school official: "Why should we spend millions for school buildings and then allow them to remain idle three months in the year? No solvent business concern would tolerate such management."

The plan most frequently mentioned is called the four-quarter plan. A number of cities have put it into effect and then scrapped it. But the four-quarter plan seems to die hard. People are talking it up again. Several cities recently have made studies of it.

The idea is this: Divide the year into four terms of three months each. All pupils study for nine months, but one fourth of the youngsters vacation during the three summer months, another fourth in the autumn, another in the winter and the remaining fourth in the spring. The school plant is thus in operation all 12 months and can accommodate a third more pupils than under a nine-month school year. In effect, 33 1/3 per cent more class rooms are added with no additional outlay in building costs.

Backers of the plan say teachers, too, will benefit. The teachers will work on a 12-month basis earn more pay. The extra pay is regarded as a way to meet complaints of low salaries in teaching jobs. And the added salaries themselves come to far less than the cost of erecting, uses a process for making teachers for them.

Perfect crimes

(From the Peterborough Examiner)

Our imagination is stimulated by a remark of Mr. Kenyon Scudder, the president of the American Correctional Association, who is quoted as saying: "People who believe that perfect crimes are unusual are mistaken; only 12 or 13 out of every 100 major crimes in the United States are ever solved."

This is a startling estimate. We have long believed that many crimes go undetected and unpunished because they do not look like crimes; the death which is really caused by poison looks like a heart attack, or the carefully contrived accident looks like an unavoidable one. But Mr. Scudder is talking about crimes which are known to be crimes—crimes which the police investigate and cannot solve. If the criminal gets away with it, we presume that it deserves to be called a 'perfect crime'.

We do not suppose that we shall ever get much information about such crimes; their essential quality is that they do not provide information. Yet we will venture a guess that most of them are simple in planning and execution; some of them may be done on the spur of the moment; their undetectability is as much a matter of good luck as of good management.

In this respect we presume that these perfect crimes differ from the crimes in the detective stories; these are always elaborate, yet they are not so elaborate that the demon sleuth cannot find a flaw in them, and run the criminal to earth. We cannot recall ever reading a detective story in which the criminal was smarter than the detective; probably such a story would be condemned as immoral. Yet in real life, unless Mr. Scudder is away off the mark, the criminal is often either luckier or smarter than those who are after him.

Once up a tree?

A posture specialist, according to the Windsor Daily Star, has been advising people to "go for a canter occasionally" on hands and knees; also to throw away their long-handled mops and "get down on all fours and scrub the floor." Thereby, he alleges, they will get relief from "head colds, sinus stoppages and other afflictions that have bothered us our species since it evolved from a four-footed means of ambulation."

The head cold and sinus sufferers we know have their own ideas (not necessarily printable) of the sort of "relief" they get putting their heads down; and it would seem, there are copious cases of housemaids' knees without getting down to canter on them. Besides, "going down on all fours" deals with the feet, not the knees; and in any case is only going down in part, since in the more robust physiques the posterior is apt to be thus actually elevated.

But the interesting reflections in such matters is how—when a four-footed ancestry of man came to be assumed as axiomatic. Indeed, those who earlier, on scientific grounds derided as "intolerant" the conviction that man always had been a biped, often became no less intolerant in the conviction that he once was a quadruped. It does not, as the logician says, necessarily follow, according to either the present structure or to fossils that go back a million years or so. In fact, vestigial shoulder-lifting muscles, akin to monkeys', might indicate that our hands and arms (with swivel mechanisms not common to four-footers) were once mainly used for suspension (e.g., from branches).

And as hand legs the human variety are plainly off base, their knees even bend in the wrong direction. Of course, science can tell us that the knee evolved from the original function of a thigh joint. But if evolution can thus transform a femur into a tibia then why couldn't it, in a few million years, have done a little something about sinus adjustment? Yet we learn that the human nasal cavity are still alike as peas in both character and number to those of certain anthropoid apes.

There, however, the affinity seems to end, for humans have sinusitis but apes don't. And no self-respecting ape would be caught dead scrubbing floors.

It is not the policy of this paper to make a habit of carrying poetry. There are reasons which seem very good indeed to us.

However, across our desk this morning there came a little bit of verse from A. E. Hewlett of Westbank which carries a chuckle with it. Strictly for the laugh—and in no way affecting our poetry policy! here is Mr. Hewlett's verse on the bridge:

A highway, paved from U.S. to Alaska,
We see evolving past our very gate;
But oh, the bottleneck that ferry offers
It must be overcome before too late.
Now if the road should bee-line up the west side,
Two days leave Kelowna somewhat off the map;
Old Vernon, too, would seem a little distant,
So both could think that they'd received a slap.

Westbank, of course, would blossom into something,
And feel so self-sufficient and so bold—
We, in our pride, might snub that Orchard City
Which nourished up this district as of old.

But Social Credit came in time to save her—
Yes, Bennett has the right solution, see—
A bridge would keep Kelowna on our highway;
Where she, of course, has every right to be.

And so we'll be united with her shortly,
As we have never dreamed of here-to-fore;
And if our Yankee friends must ignore Mr. Howard,
'Twill take them only sixty minutes more.

FIFTY YEARS AGO — 1905

A. B. Knox unearthed a skull, on what is known as Knox's Bluff. He communicated the fact to Sam Long while out surveying at the place. Mr. Long investigated the find on the ground, and was rewarded by finding a piece of elk horn about eight inches long, with a hole in the center and having several carved marks at one end. This location was the "Watch Tower" of the ancient inhabitants of the Okanagan Valley, and many a battle was, no doubt, fought at this point.

G. E. MORTIMORE

The colored lights glow, and the crowds increase. Already the town is taking on the extra bustle and brightness of Christmas shopping.

We should all rejoice. In fact, however, the approach of the merry season fills a great number of us with gloom.

"How am I going to pay for it all?" That's the question thousands of people ask themselves. "Where am I going to find the money?"

Caught in a storm of demands to buy and buy, and spend and spend, the average debt-burdened citizen wishes heartily to himself that Christmas was over.

Nobody grudges the merchant his profits. There is nothing wrong with exchanging gifts and cards, and sitting down to a cheerful dinner. All the Yuletide customs are harmless and pleasant in themselves. But the celebratory methods are in- flating an ancient holiday into monstrous jamboree of noise and dollars.

From the child in a manger to the garish world of neon signs, "easy payments, singing commercials and lineups at the liquor store is a long journey. Somewhere along the road, the idea of Christmas has been thrown out.

The simple feast of the early fathers has become a Vanity Fair of ostentation and greed, in which people are forced to spend half their current income and pledge their pay far ahead, just to show what good fellows they are.

Many people are sick of the cruel, unceasing pressure on them to buy things they don't need with money they don't possess, all in the name of Christmas.

Where is Christianity in this circus? Let's be frank. For a great mass of people, the voice of Christ sounds very faintly above the jangle of cash registers.

This complaint is made every year. It becomes trite. But Christmas itself is being made a trite festival, its message lost in the scramble to buy and sell.

Meanwhile, millions of people in the world lack enough food to keep them alive.

Professional men, lawyers, doctors, architects and the like—are generally thought to browse in lush financial ease. I have never seen one of them playing the violin for pennies, or selling balloons on the street.

So I was surprised when a friend told me a small true yarn of distress in the upper brackets.

"I saw a doctor of my acquaintance posting a sheet of bills about a foot thick," he said, "I summoned courage to ask him what they represented.

"He looked at me quizzically for a moment. These are $4,000 worth of bills," he said, "and I'll guarantee that only a fraction of them will be paid."

"About a month later I ran into this doctor, whom I know quite well. 'How did you make out with those bills?' I asked.

"Only $84 of them have been paid," he said. "And many of the bills' outstanding are owed by wealthy people. If I were to write any of them a tactful reminder, they would snap back a hot answer, full of outraged dignity—but no cheque."

"You would be surprised how many doctors are making only a fairly modest income," said my friend.

I suggested that if this was the case, some doctors had been boasting falsely to the income tax department about their earnings, because official figures showed the average doctor sitting pretty high on the economic pyramid.

He said he couldn't answer for the average doctor, but he knew several doctors who were having a struggle.

"First of all there is roughly eight years' training, in which time a doctor can earn nothing. And then he has to buy instruments, pay office rent and pay a salary to an office helper. Likely as not he has to lay out $250 a month before he makes a penny."

"I can hardly choke back the tears," I said. "Well, I know comparatively few doctors, but I know a lot of patients, and I'm sure doctors have a real grievance."

"I know several people who stow doctors' bills in the bottom drawer and forget them. I could tell you of two or three who are quite indignant when they receive a doctor's bill. In fact, getting a doctor's bill seems to irritate them so much that they go and buy a hand-made overcoat, or make the down payment on a TV set, to soothe their injured feelings."

We stood in silent contemplation of the physician's hard lot.

The bridge

(From the Wenatchee Daily World)

We in this area have been beating the tom-toms for better north-south highways for a long time. The Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association, a group of long standing, in recent years has spread out the entire length of U.S. 97 and B.C. 97.

The week news comes from Kelowna, B.C., that major bottlenecks on the entire route will be eliminated. A bridge will be built across Lake Okanagan at Kelowna that will replace the ferries there. Bids have already been called for on the six million dollar structure.

Within two years it should be opened for traffic. It will be a unique bridge from a design standpoint, being made up of three different types. Some of it will be causeway, some pontoon, and some vertical lift section.

Total length will be 4,200 feet. It will be a toll bridge.

The pontoon section will be similar to the Lake Washington bridge, but will have twice the strength. The vertical lift section is necessary because of the large traffic along Okanagan Lake.

This is good news for all of us on Highway 97. The Canadians are moving rapidly to build the finest kind of a road from the border all the way north to the Alaska Highway.

On this side of the line we have a number of projects under way, such as the Okanagan Valley Improvement and the Blewett Pass construction.

There is still a major job to make an adequate road from the Okanagan to Wenatchee. Other important needs are a bridge across the Columbia River at Blaine, and short-cut from the Blewett road to Ellensburg.

We are making important progress toward adequate north-south highways, but it looks like the Canadians are getting their roads built on this route even faster than we are.

GOLF COURSE PROPERTY

PENTICTON — The City of Penticton has received an offer from Paul E. Pauls whereby Mr. Pauls is prepared to sell the city 30 acres of land west of the present golf links for $1,250 per acre, on condition that the area be used for park purposes.

Should the present plan be carried out and the area bought and developed as a golf course, it will end a problem that has been debated for more than five years.

CUTIES

"I don't know if I'm going on a long journey, but YOU are. I'm a policewoman!"

TO MAKE SURVEY

PENTICTON — Council has accepted the offer of Associated Engineering Services to undertake the survey of Penticton and Ellis creeks for water storage possibilities. It was agreed, however, that as much of the work as possible will be performed by city crews, this to include drafting and making of plans, and the assistant-engineering work, so that the charges will cover only such work as cannot be done by the city staff.

Canadian Players enjoyed unqualified success since group formed early in 1954; present Shakespearean play here Jan. 25

The Canadian Players Ltd. was formed in the spring and summer of 1954 by Tom Patterson, director of planning of the Stratford Shakespearean festival, and Douglas Campbell, a Scottish actor who has been one of the leading actors of the festival since its inaugural year.

The company was formed with two main objectives—firstly, to keep Canadian talent in Canada by providing year-round employment on a completely professional basis, and secondly, to take first rate theatre to the towns and cities of Canada.

Canadian Players have now arranged a tour of Western Canada. The company will present a repertoire of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" in Kelowna. The tour is being organized by the president, Mrs. Tom Patterson, and the company's PRO, Miss Laurel Crosby, who left Stratford last Easter Monday for their trip which took them through to the Pacific Coast.

It was felt by the founders that if Canada is to have its native theatre and to gain international recognition, then Canadian talent must have an opportunity to develop, but perhaps even more important, Canadian audiences from the smaller towns and cities, as well as the metropolitan centres, must have a chance to see a very high standard of professional Canadian theatre.

To implement this policy, the Canadian Players set out on a tour in October, 1954, opening in Ottawa in co-operation with the department of external affairs, who were at that time host to the Colombo Plan delegates. The tour took the company into 23 centres in Southern Ontario with a platform version of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." In the short period of 10 weeks, the Canadian Players, playing mostly one night stands in the small towns and cities, established their reputation as Canada's foremost touring theatrical company.

The ability of the company was not only applauded by the Canadian press but also drew rave reviews from U.S. publications such as the New York Times, Variety, Time Magazine, Theatre Arts, etc.

TOUR NORTHLAND

On January 6, 1955, the company started out on another pioneering venture when they took off for Ontario's northland. No professional company has ever toured this area before. However, the results of the tour vindicated the faith the company put into its efforts.

From this successful Northern tour, the company moved to the theatrical centre of New York, where they appeared as a guest company on the Ford Foundation's TV program "OmniBus" in a laboratory presentation of Hamlet. This programme was done in collaboration with Walker Kerr, drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune. One again, rave reviews were in order, coming from right across the Continent.

The company then did a short tour of U.S. cities, appearing in Corning, N.Y., Buffalo, N.Y., and Detroit, Mich.

After a record breaking tour (for a Canadian company) of 38 centres in Canada and the U.S., the company closed its first year's tour.

PRESIDENT TRANSFERRED

At about this time, Tom Patterson relinquished his position as President and handed over the reins to his wife Robin. Pressure of Stratford Festival business necessitated this move. Mrs. Patterson, who is also a new-comer to the theatrical business, and Miss Laurel Crosby, the company's PRO, were successful in lining up the northern Ontario tour, as well as making the final arrangements for the U.S. visit.

Although the company had completed its first season, planning for future seasons continued. As a result of the unprecedented success, offers were received from New York, and other U.S. centres as well as communities throughout Canada.

In the U.S., a theatrical agency was contacted and a limited number of dates were arranged in cities as far away as Burlington, Vermont; Lexington, Kentucky; Washington, D.C.; and Fargo, North Dakota.

However, it is intended by the company to remain essentially Canadian and to fulfill its objectives of bringing live professional theatre to Canadian audiences.

It was also intended from the beginning that the company should obtain widespread patronage, so that it could, in fact, justify its name "Canadian Players."

LADY EATON APPOINTED PATRON

With this in view, Lady Eaton of Toronto was asked, and graciously accepted, the position of Chief Patron. In giving her patronage, Lady Eaton wrote: "I am most interested in the development of Canadian theatre and am very anxious that such an excellent troupe should have the support of people from coast to coast, so that theatre may become well known throughout Canada. The performances you have already given show the desire there is on the part of Canadians for real theatre and should augur well for the eventual great success of the Company."

Salmon Arm rites of interest to local residents

Baskets of white and gold chrysanthemums formed a pretty setting in First United Church, Salmon Arm, recently for the mid-afternoon wedding of Miss Marian Winifred Raven, of Kelowna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Raven, of Canoe, to Mr. Lawrence Joseph Sargenta, son of Mrs. Leonie S., of Kelowna, Rev. A. O. Clements officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of net and lace over satin fashioned with a strapless lace bodice topped with a lace jacket with lily point sleeves. The bouffant skirt of double layers of net stood out gracefully over a train. Her lace edged veil fell softly from a dainty coronet and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret Raven, as her sister's maid of honor, chose a ballerina length gown of pale blue net over taffeta and she carried a bouquet of white and yellow chrysanthemums. Attending the groom were Mr. Victor Locke, of Kelowna, while Mr. Ken Raven Jr., the bride's brother, ushered. During the signing of the register Mrs. D. L. Murchison provided a suitable musical interlude on the organ.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about forty guests was held in the Metropole cafe dining room which was attractively decorated with pink and white carnations. For the occasion the bride's mother chose a royal blue taffeta afternoon frock with black accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums while the groom's mother wore a green knitted suit with grey accessories and her corsage was bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Alf Holmwood proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded.

Centering the bride's table was her cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. A. S. McKim. The table was illuminated by pink candles. The bride couple opened and displayed their many wedding gifts at the reception.

Out of town guests included the groom's mother and sisters, Mrs. L. Sargenta and Misses Josephine and Yvonne Sargenta; Mr. Victor Locke, Mr. Arman Diewert, and Mr. Alf Holmwood, all of Kelowna.

For their honeymoon trip to Portland, Oregon, the bride donned a dark wool suit, with coral hat and gloves, and a corsage of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Sargenta have since taken up residence at 1322 St. Paul Street, Kelowna.

HAWAII FOR CHRISTMAS . . . Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Underhill, Abbott Street, left today for Seattle where they will board a plane for Honolulu. The Underhills plan to return on December 30.

Rutland

RUTLAND — The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hall was the scene of a reception on Tuesday evening of last week, the guest of honor being their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Christie, whose marriage took place recently in Vancouver. The happy couple left the following day for their home in Palo Alto, California.

The Women's Federation of the United Church held a bazaar in the church basement hall on Friday afternoon. In spite of the bad roads and inclement weather the ladies cleared a good sum from the sale of home cooking, afternoon tea, etc.

Snowball frolic provides last gala event before approaching holiday season

A full capacity crowd joined in the festivities last Friday when the Lions' and Lions' Ladies held their annual Snowball Frolic in the Canadian Legion hall with Chas Pettman supplying the ever popular and seasonal music.

Though the temperature outside was chilly, the atmosphere at the Snowball Frolic was warm and friendly. Groups of two or more couples were seated around tables of varying sizes arranged in the dining room, the balcony, and along the walls of the main ballroom in cabaret style. There were no age barriers for dancers one and all were young in heart as they thrilled to the music of Charles Pettman's six piece orchestra.

A soft lighting effect in the hall was created by covering the fluorescent lights with a single layer of crepe paper. The silvered fir trees, enhanced with blue lights, were placed here and there about the rooms with a group of six trees surrounding the orchestra stand. Suspended from the ceiling were silver stars of irregular sizes and Christmas candle centrepieces graced the tables.

The convener, Mrs. Syd Cook thought this year's Snowball Frolic would be remembered as one of the outstanding dances sponsored by the Lions' Ladies.

Cook's corner

Salmon Spaghetti is a hearty, man-sized dish. Zesty too, for it combines spaghetti 'n' bacon, Canadian cheddar cheese and salmon, milk and seasonings. Mixed together quickly it's topped with buttered crumbs before it's put into the oven to bubble and brown, and to blend those foods together until they reach the point . . . in just 30 minutes.

SALMON CHEESE CASSEROLE

(Makes 4 servings)
4 slices white bread
1 cup minced onion

Cook onion until tender in butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Add flour and seasonings, blend well. Gradually add evaporated milk and water. Cook over boiling water until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add salmon and lemon juice to sauce. Remove from heat and pour over bread quarters in casserole. Sprinkle with cheddar cheese and top with remaining bread quarters, lightly buttered, if desired. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for 30 minutes. Serve immediately.

Our puffy Salmon Fondue takes a longer baking time, but it's worth every minute of it. The fondue is a mixture of bread cubes, butter, eggs and cheese, cooked until it thickens, with salmon and stiffly beaten egg whites for the puff added. Oven-poached in a pan of hot water, it's a delicately textured dish with the subtlest of flavor blendings when you take it from the oven and serve it in all its glory at your table.

REEVE AND TWO COUNCILLORS TO BE ELECTED.

Bill Warwick gets six-game suspension

Bill Warwick has been given a six-game suspension, dating from November 25, according to referee-in-chief, Carl Sorenson, of Vernon. This will make Der Bill eligible to play again on December 10, when the Elks play host to the Vees.

Warwick's suspension came in the final game of the Okanagan tour, when he deliberately cross-checked referee Arnold Smith of Vernon. Smith gave him a match penalty, putting him out of play until a ruling could be given on his further punishment.

According to the plan of action outlined by Mr. Sorenson at the pre-schedule meeting held in the Allison Hotel in Vernon, at which all potential referees and coaches were present, the penalizing of anyone laying a hand on a referee was to be strictly adhered to.

Warwick's case is the first to come up so far, and now that a precedent has been established, the other players will have an example to remember.

Sez who?

"A boxing champ?" He must have been the champ of the Y.M.C.A. Jack Kirk, rugged Packer defence man, was a bit incensed when he heard a Vernon radio announcer say that his opponent in a round of fisticuffs, Art Hart, was a former Alberta champion. Kirk, no mean battler himself, took this to heart, feeling that he was well able to take care of himself. Hart will be in town on Thursday night when the Packers have the Vernon Canadians, but Kirk says he doesn't feel he needs a body guard.

ON EVERY TEAM

There is at least one former member of the Chicago Black Hawks on every team in the National Hockey League. The ex-Jack Hawk on Toronto is goalie Harry Lumley. Top point-getter Bert Olmstead is the ex-Chicagoan in Montreal's free-wheeling Canadians, New York Rangers have a pair in Bill Gadsby and Dave Creighton, while Detroit and Boston each have three former members of the Hawks. The ex-Windy City players with Detroit are Bob Goldham, Bucky Hollingsworth and Metro Prystay; while the Bruins have Vic Stasiuk, Lorne Davis and Cal Gardner.

Many hunters bag deer at Peachland

PEACHLAND — Peachland has had its share of the snow the past week.

Total of 23 inches were recorded on the lower benches. The deer hunters have been taking full advantage of the deep snow which has brought the deer down, and very few failed to get their bag with a minimum of effort.

V's in cellar position for first time in three years

Moe Young's Packers occasioned a few firsts in Penticton on Friday night, as they whipped the world champion Vees 6-2, and moved into the second spot in the OSHL standing.

One of the first was Penticton's occupation of the cellar spot, for the first time in three years. Another first was Penticton fans walking out of the arena before the game was over, something that just hasn't been done in the Peach City in three years.

The Packers started the scoring, ened to get out of hand, and began throwing peanuts, paper bags and torn up paper on the ice, booing the refs lustily. On Neilson's call against Madigan for charging goalie Gathrum, they booed so loud the announcer was unable to make himself heard.

In the closing minutes of the period, Grant Warwick got away from his check, and kicked the twine from the corner. McLelland stopped 16 of the 20 shots fired at him that period, and Gathrum stopped seven of the eight Vees got at him.

In the final period, the Packers went on the defensive, and played their checks, bottling them up. Vees shot 16 to the Packers' eight in the period, but Gathrum was too much for them, supported as he was by some good back-checking and defensive work.

Jablonski lowered over Grant Warwick when he was on against him, but stuck to him like a leech.

First Period—1, Kelowna, Young (Hanson) 5:59; 2, Penticton, Tarala (Bathgate, Fairburn) 8:41; 3, Kelowna, Jablonski (Unassisted) 19:10. Penalties: Schai (2), Rucks, Bedard, Hanson, Bathgate.

Second Period—4, Kelowna, Kirk (Schai) 1:40; 5, Kelowna, Roche (Middleton, Kaiser) 3:05; 6, Kelowna, Middleton, Roche, Kaiser) 13:40; 7, Kelowna, Roche (unassisted) 17:10; 8, Penticton, G. Warwick (MacDonald, Bathgate) 18:50. Penalties: Madigan (2), Schai.

Third Period—No scoring. Penalties: Schai.

Stops—Gathrum: 11, 7, 16-34; McLelland—7, 16, 8-31.

Kelowna Packers occupy third spot in the OSHL today after playing a ragged game against a spotty Kamloops club, which the northerners won Saturday night 3-2. Vernon is well out in front, while Elks are second, and Penticton V's are in the cellar position for the first time in three years.

Dave Gathrum played an outstanding game in the Kelowna nets, letting in only three of the 40 shots levelled at him, while Don Moog only called to stop 28.

The first period, a scoreless frame, was filled with ragged, ineffective hockey, very few actual plays being organized, and plenty of off-sides slowing down the game. Each team was called upon to kill one penalty, and while shots on goal were fairly even, Packers missed more chances at the net on loose pucks.

SECOND PERIOD

In the second, Bill Hryciuk, veteran marksman for the Elks, came through with two counters, both of them assisted by Hornby and Millard. The first one came when the Elks were storming Gathrum's sanctum, and Hryciuk was left in the clear at the corner of the net long enough to nick the twine on a pass-out from Millard.

The second red light came four minutes later, at the 17:02 mark, when wily Hryciuk snared what was actually a loose puck, although it had come off Millard's stick, and banged in a well-screened shot.

Only one penalty in the frame went to Kassin, and Packers were stymied in their efforts to score during that two minutes. Kamloops out-shot Packers 16-6 in the frame.

In the third period, Elks went right on the defensive, and it was 9:26 in the twenty minutes before the red and white squad got a shot on Moog.

Less than a minute later, Jim Middleton notched Kelowna's first of the game, with a beautiful combination, on one of the first good plays between him and Brian Roche, topped off with a rifle shot that Moog hardly even saw.

TIE SCORE

Four minutes later Packers tied the score up when Roche scored, slightly deflecting one of Alf Pyett's bullet slap-shots that are very effective if they get away.

It looked like the Packers might be holding on for a tie, to let the game go into overtime, but Millard, Hornby and Hryciuk, got down into the red and white end of the ice, ragging the puck around, practically got away with a full minute of really unchecked. Millard netted one after Gathrum had made three stops on the play, and the puck was rolling loose and unattended.

SUMMARY

First period: No score. Penalties: Schai, 9:30; Alseon, 13:52.

Second period: Kamloops, Hryciuk (Hornby, Millard) 13:33; Kamloops, Hryciuk (Hornby, Millard), 17:02; Kassin, 2:12.

Third period: Kelowna, Middleton, (Roche) 10:08; Kelowna, Roche (Middleton, Pyett), 16:56; Kamloops, Millard (Hornby, Hryciuk) 18:44. Penalties: Jones 3:38; Whiteside, Young, 11:04; Alseon, 11:11; Whiteside, 16:00; Whiteside, misc. 16:58.

Shots on goal—Kelowna 28, Kamloops 40.

MORE SHUTOUTS

National Hockey League goalkeepers have racked up six more shutouts this season than for the with gates on the decline, even in the home of the world's champs, where a loss in games could mean the end of an era.

Sarge Sammartino sparks Vernon to 10-2 victory over local intermediates

Packers' intermediate team got away to a bad start on Sunday, when they journeyed to Vernon to suffer a 10-2 defeat, with Sarge Sammartino scoring six of the Vernon goals.

Nine of the Kelowna boys had played two commercial games, stripped, and travelled to Vernon for the intermediate encounter, and it proved to be too much for them.

The Vernon team got away to a fast start, Jakes scoring from Loehini at 1:08, and they never looked back, scoring five unanswered goals in the first frame.

The second frame saw a total of three more scored for Vernon, with no reply. Only three minors were dished out in the frame.

The third period saw the heat really turned on, as Kelowna collapsed on their tired legs to make the effort. Buddy Laidler and Tom White scored one apiece, in answer to the two Vernon counters scored in that period, but it wasn't enough to make much of a dent in the score.

Altogether, a total of 48 minutes in penalties was awarded, with 26 minutes for Vernon, 22 for Kelowna.

Canadians hold off V's rally

VERNON—Penticton Vees came up with one of their last-ditch rallies in the final two minutes to net two goals but it wasn't enough, as Vernon Canadians held on for a 6-5 victory in an action-packed OSHL contest before 2,000 fans Saturday night.

The win was the 17th in 20 games for the front-running Canadians and boosted their lead to 14 points over runner-up Kamloops Elks, who left the world champions all alone in the basement by shading Kelowna Packers 3-2. Third-place Packers trail the Elks by one point and are one point up on the Vees.

Canadians appeared headed for a decisive win, pumping home three tallies in the middle part of the final period, to assume a 6-3 lead.

TWO PENALTIES

Then two penalties within 34 seconds of each other with more than two minutes to go gave the Vees their chance. At first opportunity, coach Grant Warwick pulled goalie Ivan McLelland to give his club what amounted to a three-man advantage.

Overwhelming odds quickly paid off with Doug Kilburn poking in a rebound at 18:30 and Jack McIntyre blinking the light again 43 seconds later. The Vees continued to storm his citadel but Hal Gordon, a Vernon standout, somehow managed to ride out the storm and preserve the margin.

Odie Lowe, Sherm Blair, Tom Steyk, Merv Bidoski, George Agar, and Frank King netted in that order for Vernon. Penticton marksman were Hal Tarala with two, Ernie Rucks, Doug Kilburn and McIntyre. Grant Warwick handled his club in civies to have a look at his slumping club, which also lacked the services of Joe Malo, down with the flu, and Bill Warwick, currently sitting out a six-game suspension.

Canadians performed the feat 11 times. The goalies in shutouts with five, Boston's Terry Sawchuk had four, while Glenn Hall of Detroit had three. Chicago's Al Rollins had two while Harry Lumley, Toronto, and Lorne Worsley, Rangers each had one.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about:

LARGE BILLS And How to pay them

Most people spend large sums of money only when they know where the money is coming from. But there are some bills that you just can't plan for. For instance, car smash-ups, unexpected medical expenses, fires, thefts and anything completely out of your control; bills that hit you like a bolt out of the blue. These large bills are often a serious concern to a family. That's when a Niagara loan can really be of help. At any rate there are a lot of letters in our office which were written by people who certainly think our service was a mighty fine answer to this difficult kind of problem. You'll find if you inquire, that friendly loans at Niagara Finance often have lower rates. Another point about Niagara loans to $1500 are life-insured at no extra cost to you. If you have a large unexpected bill which you can't handle why not drop in or phone; we'll be glad to see you.

Nelson Maple Leafs may drop out of loop unless club gets better support

There may be trouble brewing in the WIHL.

According to press and radio reports emanating from the Kootenay country, Nelson Maple Leafs plan to withdraw from the league after December 15 if they don't get better financial support.

This would present a poser to the WIHL executive, who had to contend with a proposed Kimberley withdrawal, before the season opened. Spokane stepped in and gave the club some aid, thus keeping them in the loop. At the same time the Kootenay swing was proposed in order to help the faltering league.

The wing has been instituted, and on the first trip of the Kamloops team, they played before fair-sized gates, the Elks taking two of their four games.

The Packers, on the other hand,

Kimberley lost all four of their games in their Okanagan swing, and Trail split their engagement, drew top gates, in all cities except Spokane, and won two, tied one and lost one.

Financially, the deal hasn't been a good one for the Okanagan league, and from the individual club standpoint, it has been a dead loss. However the Kootenay clubs have fared better.

Should Nelson drop out, the poser will be "What will the Kootenays do?" Drop out of hockey?

When it was discussed before, the general feeling among local hockey fans probed, was "let them take care of themselves, we have enough problems of our own."

And the Okanagan league unquestionably has plenty of problems, with gates on the decline, even in the home of the world's champs, where a loss in games could mean the end of an era.

Last-minute goal beats Kamloops

KAMLOOPS—The league-leading Vernon Canadians fired a last-minute goal to win a ragged Okanagan Senior Hockey League game against Kamloops Elks 3-2 here Friday night.

Frank King was the marksman, beating Kamloops' goaltender Don Moog from close in while Don Slater of the Elks was serving a boarding penalty.

The teams traded goals in the first period and again in the second, with Vernon scoring twice on power plays.

Johnny Harms, Orval Lavell and Frank King netted for Vernon while Joe Connors and Linemate Ed Kassin accounted for the two Kamloops goals.

The win was Vernon's 16th in 10 starts while Kamloops lost their fourth home game in a row after dumping the Penticton Vees 10-4 on Penticton ice two days previously.

AN OPEN LETTER TO PEACHLAND AND BENCHLAND RESIDENTS

Dear Folks,

This coming Saturday, the 10th of December, the Municipality of Peachland is offering a Plebiscite for your consideration, which if voted in favour, will allow the municipality to sign the Natural Gas Franchise.

The Inland Natural Gas Co., which is a British Columbia firm, have offered us a good potential source of revenue. Besides the monies spent on local labour plus hire and purchase of equipment, we will enjoy a percentage of gross revenues gathered from within the franchise limits.

The Valley is growing more sound as each year passes. If we follow the thinking of other communities we shall prosper. Let us then, think progressively!

Therefore the Council and myself urge you to vote "YES" to the Franchise on election day.

Sincerely,
G. W. HAWKSLEY,
Reeve.

Teachers acclaim "Ulysses" coming to local screen

Thousands of teachers from all over the country, members of National Education Association meeting in convention at Chicago, attended special preview showings of Paramount's, mighty Technicolor epic "Ulysses" based on Homer's "Odyssey".

The film, starring Kirk Douglas, Silvana Mangano and Anthony Quinn, playing at the Paramount, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, was unanimously acclaimed as a magnificent presentation of a great classic and a fine teaching aid.

Frank Becker enters Vernon mayoralty race

VERNON—Surprise entry of two prominent residents completely shattered the prevailing calm of the civic election picture and exciting contest is in the offing.

Frank F. Becker, business man and sportsman, announced that he will be a candidate for the mayoralty, thus making the contest a three-way affair, and Mrs. H. Leon Cousier, for years prominent in varied community work, became the fourth aspirant for the two vacant aldermanic seats.

Mr. Becker, aged 45, is probably best known for his work as chairman of the building committee for the Jubilee Hospital, which was opened in 1949, and as an active executive in sports, particularly hockey.

Voters will thus have a choice between veteran Mayor A. C. Wilde, former alderman George H. Melvin, and Mr. Becker.

Mr. Becker said that he had been approached by many citizens to allow his name to stand. He announced that he would definitely favor Vernon's entrance into the Okanagan Union Library scheme and if elected would institute a Council committee with this objective in view.

SEAPLANE BASE

PENTICTON—If present plans of the Federal Department of Public Works materialize, Penticton will have a seaplane base on Skaha Lake.

This was made known to city council when a letter came from the department asking them to relinquish a 25-by-100 foot strip of Skaha beach (Indian Reserve section) adjacent to Okanagan river to provide access for the landing.

The plan accompanying the letter of request showed the new rock breakwater that federal authorities have built near Okanagan river. The proposed landing will be situated on this breakwater, inside the curve, thus providing a sheltered bay for the aircraft.

The letter stated that the desired land was owned by Tommy Jack of

Vernon trade board sparks move to hold annual city celebration

VERNON—Representatives of Vernon's service clubs will be called to a meeting early in the New Year to give detailed consideration to preliminary suggestions for holding an annual city celebration.

Under auspices of the Vernon Board of Trade, a meeting decided that the idea of a celebration should be pursued and all possible avenues for action explored by a steering committee. Board president Frank Harris and Mayor A. C. Wilde were instructed to select the committee.

The decision reached subsequently was to use its good offices as a means to convene such a meeting to initiate such a discussion. Immediately after the holiday season and to invite a representative from each service club and the board of Council.

Opening the gathering, President Harris explained that the board felt opinion in the community should be tested.

To that end, letters had been written to a large number of local organizations inviting them to discuss the question and, if agreeable, to attend a meeting. The board was any strong group convened, but the Council did not feel that it could underwrite any such event.

Trends in food topic of talk to Kiwanians

"Trends in Food" was the topic of a recent address by Ian F. Greenwood, when he spoke to members of the Kiwanis Club. The speaker touched on the rapid changes in merchandising of meat, milk, fish and vegetables, and spoke at greater length on recent trends in fruit processing and handling. Lorne Wildeman introduced Mr. Greenwood and he was thanked by Terry Bennett.

At another meeting O. L. Jones, M.P., (Okanagan Boundary), spoke of the difficulties of marketing Canada's surplus wheat crop, which he said, formed the basic part of the national economy. He also touched on the organization and procedure of parliament as well as other matters awaiting legislative decision.

New bridge will overcome Penticton traffic hazard

PENTICTON — One of Penticton's worst traffic hazards, the narrow bridge over Ellis Creek on Main street (Highway 97) is to be replaced by the provincial government with a new, wider structure, city council was informed.

In announcing the replacement, Alderman J. G. Harris, chairman of the city's works department, said that the new concrete bridge will be considerably wider than the existing wooden one, and also, if council will take the necessary steps, be located slightly south of the present structure with the run of the creek changed accordingly.

TRAFFIC LANE "The new 35 foot span, will have a 26 foot traffic lane, with a five-foot sidewalk allowance on either side of it," said Alderman Harris. This will mean the bridge will be in conformity with others that the provincial government has constructed on Highway 97 in other parts of the South Okanagan during the past two or three years.

"If we will take the necessary steps, now, the government will erect the bridge so that the creek is in its proper right-of-way," said Alderman Harris. "At the present time the creek is not in this right-of-way, and down-stream immediately west of the highway, crosses a privately-owned lot."

"To make the needed change will mean continuing some of the channel work that was carried out upstream from the bridge some years ago. It will call for moving about 4,000 yards of material, and will straighten out the sharp curve occurring in the creek, commencing at the existing bridge."

Superintendent E. R. Gayfer, who had been with Alderman Harris in the conference with provincial government engineers, corroborated his figures, adding that the work, if undertaken at this season, might not be too difficult. Also that it would facilitate the flow of the stream, and prevent further erosion damage in the region on either side of the bridge.

AERIAL PHOTO City council, which has been pressing for the replacement of the bridge for some time, acted promptly at the conclusion of the examination of the aerial photo and plans of the location and of the new bridge. By unanimous resolution the whole matter was placed in the hands of the city works committee, with power to act.

While no statement of the source of funds for the channel work, which may amount to $5,000, was made during the discussion, it was later gathered that either unexpended balances from uncompleted projects, or a transference of funds from other department, will provide the needed cash.

Moving of the bridge a few feet farther south will mean that it will clear Huth avenue slightly better than is now the case. This will remove another hazard when traffic is moving from Huth avenue on to the bridge, or vice versa.

While council will go all out to prepare for the construction of the new highway bridge it has not lost sight of the need for work on Penticton creek, in preparation for the replacement of the Ellis street bridge over that stream, which has also been assured the city by provincial authorities.

New setup for road engineers

The Provincial Department of Public Works has moved to decentralize operations of the highway engineers branch. Instead of headquarters at Victoria there will be four regional offices located at Kamloops, Nelson, Prince George and Victoria.

The position of assistant deputy engineer is being disbanded and four regional highway engineers are sought to head departments in the four centres selected for each area.

Duties include responsibility for the administration and co-ordination of activities in the region, direction of a staff consisting of a construction engineer, maintenance engineer, district engineers and their engineering staffs, liaison between the regional staff and headquarters in the operation, construction bridges and ferries and recommendation for major construction projects.

Among the necessary qualifications are a university degree in engineering and proven experience in construction and maintenance of highways.

Assisting with opening the presents were the guest of honor's sister, Mrs. Gordon Marshall; and Misses Lorna Rankin and Joan Purdy. Refreshments served by Mesdames L. E. Marshall, Jack Snowsell and L. Purdy brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

At a meeting of the Community Club dramatic group held last Monday evening, election of officers

A committee was into the possibility of securing a director, with a view to producing an evening of short plays in the spring. Several young people have expressed interest in dramatics and it is hoped that a play can also be produced which is suitable for their talents.

Your Gas Company

What has been Inland's contribution toward bringing Natural Gas to Interior British Columbia?

Inland has been identified with and has given substantial support to the proposal to bring natural gas to interior and southern British Columbia since its inception. The company has taken part in the drilling of gas wells in the Peace River area and these wells have been material in establishing the existence of the reserves necessary to support Westcoast's proposed transmission line. Inland also made market surveys and prepared engineering reports on the feasibility of installing distribution systems in interior communities. All of this data was placed in evidence before the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada and the United States Federal Power Commission in support of Westcoast's pipeline application.

Inland has contracted with Westcoast Transmission Company Limited to purchase substantial amounts of gas for the British Columbia interior. Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation Limited have also contracted to purchase natural gas from Westcoast. These three contracts give Westcoast sufficient volume of sales to enable financing of a 30-inch pipeline from the Peace River district to the international border.

Is Inland a British Columbia Company?

Inland is a British Columbia company. Capital for company programs has been raised in British Columbia and the shares of the Company are widely held throughout the province. The assets of the company are in excess of $2,930,000.

Is Inland presently engaged in the Natural Gas Business?

One of Inland's pipelines supplies gas to Dawson Creek, B.C. Dawson Creek was the first community in British Columbia to receive natural gas. Another Inland system serves several communities in Alberta. Inland is also engaged in natural gas exploration and production.

Company personnel are experienced and capable and the company retains internationally recognized consulting engineering firms.

What are Inland's plans to provide Natural Gas to Interior B.C. communities?

Inland plans to spend over $25,000,000 to bring natural gas to citizens in twenty-nine incorporated municipalities and fifteen unincorporated communities in interior B.C.

What are Inland's plans for Kelowna?

Inland plans to spend $500,000 in Kelowna before the end of 1957 and has agreed with the city to post a $100,000 bond to assure the extent of the planned investment as soon as the company is certificated to build the necessary transmission line and distribution system to serve Kelowna. The company has also agreed to employ local labor and materials where possible and practical.

Let's all get "lit up" this Christmas time

If you ever stepped on a rake in the dark and saw that flash that occurs when the handle hits you between the eyes, you can probably see why so many people are going in for outdoor lighting around their homes.

A friend of ours recently floodlighted his entire grounds after he stepped on a roller skate in his driveway.

And floodlighting is becoming quite the thing to discourage prowlers. Only point is that the bulbs should be shielded as much as possible from direct view. Placing the lights under the eaves at four corners of the house is good practice.

Accent lighting of gardens and landscaping is another comparatively new wrinkle. In fact, the ladies at their garden clubs have discovered that electric lights used at night over flower beds or vegetable gardens stimulate plant growth.

Well, garden decorative lighting is a matter of personal taste. The best idea is to use a few lights, rather widely spaced. This creates points of interest rather than a monotonous wash-out look of floodlighting. Such lights can be directed up into trees and shrubs as well as down from above.

Porches, patios and terraces are now commonly illuminated. And the increasing popularity of electric lawn mowers, hedge clippers, power-operated barbecue spits, hot-bed heating cables and what not, means a big need for outdoor power outlets.

The main problem in the use of electric wiring outdoors is to keep it dry. It used to be that expensive lead-sealed conduits were needed for all outdoor purposes. Plastic has simplified all of this.

An electrical conduit is still needed for the point where you bring the cable out of the ground. This will insure rigidity. Keep the conduit from wobbling by strapping it to a tree or by embedding it in the concrete in the ground.

1. Lights and outlets mounted on the house should be connected with the indoor wiring system.

2. For lights and outlets in the yard, provide a separate, 115-volt circuit. If you expect to use many lights at the same time, several circuits may be needed.

3. Switches for the outside lights should be installed indoors or at some other spot permanently protected from the weather.

4. If temporary lights are used, they should be equipped with heavy-duty rubber-neoprene cords with weatherproof plugs, receptacles and sockets. Never use lamp cord or telephone cable.

5. Always use weatherproof electrical boxes, outlets and fixtures.

It's harder than ever to make money

... To print your own, that is. The Bank of England has made the counterfeiters' lot an even unhappier one by pressing a thin strip of aluminum foil into the paper used for making bank notes. Seems the do-it-yourself enthusiasts find it virtually impossible to duplicate.

It is nice to think that there will probably be a little bit of Canada wherever this new paper currency circulates. Great Britain imports 80% of her aluminum from Canada, and in turn represents one of the major markets for Canadian aluminum. ALUMINUM COMPANY OF CANADA, LTD. (ALCAN)

Undercoating is important for enamel

Enamel often has a varnish base, for example, to give it a durable, washable surface that makes it ideal for kitchen and bathroom use.

But that very hardness makes it somewhat brittle, so it may chip or flake off if you have done a hazardous job of preparation or application.

A good undercoating does the job much better than applying an extra coat of enamel.

It is essential before you enamel, to remove all traces of wax, grease, and dirt from the surface. Use a washing powder that will cut wax and grease. Brush on the solution for full coverage; then sponge away loosened film with a cloth dampened with clean water.

Sand-chipped areas vigorously with medium sandpaper to feather edges of mar. Then go over the entire surface with fine sandpaper (No. 2/0) or fine steel wool, using straight strokes.

Enamel undercoater has high covering power, seals the surface, provides a smooth base for enamel. It is essential over new wood or when changing colors, and is advisable on any enamelling job. Thin the undercoater to brushing consistency if needed; then apply with straight, even strokes. Let dry 24 hours.

For a true final color, it is wise to tint your enamel undercoater to approach color of the finish coat. This is especially true of deep colors. To tint, mix the color-in-oil from a tube with a little turpentine. Then add it drop by drop in the undercoater, stirring thoroughly, until you reach desired shade.

Railway level crossings are discussed

PENTICTON — New moves to safeguard, if not eliminate, level crossings in the city are being outlined by representatives of the Pentiction Board of Trade and City Council in an informal discussion held at the close of the regular council session.

It was stated by City Clerk H. G. Andrew during the session that U. B. McCallum, district inspector of the Board of Railway Commissioners, had been to the city as a sequel to the recent accident on Jermy Avenue. He told Mr. Andrew that a new approach to the whole problem of both protection and elimination of the crossings is being considered in which total elimination of some of the worst crossings might be possible. A new deal on protective measures, including wig-wag signals, is also under advisement.

Protective measures under consideration provide for a sharing-of-the-cost plan, whereby a city or town might be able to get signals at dangerous spots on payment of only 20 to 25 percent of the cost, with the government paying a major portion, and the railways a minor one, similar to that paid by the community involved. This would mean that the present plan, whereby the railway and government share the total cost of all signals, would be scrapped in favor of the new idea.

Alderman H. M. Geddes said that one of the most dangerous items on the railway is that flat car, insofar as the motorist is concerned.

"You can approach a railway crossing occupied by a string of flat-cars, you can see all the car lights facing you, and utterly fail to notice the railway cars, unless you are familiar with that crossing. Strangers might easily overlook it, and plow right into the flat cars, illuminated by dimmed lights," said Alderman Geddes.

WAITING FOR BYLAW

PENTICTON — City council was led up to, but fought shy of, dealing with several zoning problems that crossed council table. It was agreed that these shall be tabled pending the finalization of the new town planning bylaw, which, according to Alderman H. M. Geddes, should be done within the next couple of weeks.

This is at least the third time that council has been assured that the measure could be finalized within that time, but meanwhile council and the town planning commission have been deluged with applications for which an early decision was requested, to protect the interests of owners or would-be purchasers of property.

VISITING SNAKE

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Andrew Gortie captured a garter snake here. Old residents say it must have come in on a freight train.

Check your reactions

Heating should be "comfortable"

Wintertime is the heating man's favorite season because as the outside temperature drops, making necessary the provision of some type of heating inside the house, more and more folks begin thinking about the same subject in which he is interested—COMFORT.

Comfort has been described as a state of mind and body in which a person is not conscious of being uncomfortable. That may sound a little complicated, but when a person is actually and completely comfortable he is not conscious of it at all. His mind and body are completely freed of any sensation that is not well with him. He can concentrate on anything that he may happen to be doing at the moment—working, reading, even sleeping—without any nagging little impression in his mind to interrupt him by saying, "You're really not comfortable."

These little "discomfort naggers" cause us to react physically in certain ways as our minds tell our bodies to get out of particularly uncomfortable situations and conditions. In fact by recognizing them it is possible for the homeowner to evaluate whether or not his home heating system is providing the home with as comfortable an environment as it should be.

Here is a check list of a few bodily reactions that will indicate your home heating system is not giving you a thorough comfort job.

Are you getting up constantly to turn the thermostat up or turn it down because you feel either too hot or too cold? If so, there is something wrong with the capability of your heating system to maintain even control of temperature in your house. A modern system can control the temperature so closely that you can just about forget the fact that you have a thermostat.

Are you a "feet sitter" ... meaning, is it more comfortable to tuck your feet up under when you sit on the davenport sewing or listening to the radio? If so, it's more than possible that your house is suffering from cold floor trouble. A modern heating system can provide even, floor-to-ceiling temperatures in every room.

Are you a "seasonal furniture mover" ... meaning that at the beginning of each winter you move all the chairs and davenports to inside walls because no one can sit on the outside walls in the winter? If so, your heating system is only giving you "partial home heating". Modern heating techniques provide comfortable sitting enjoyment right out at the perimeter of the house, even in front of the largest picture window.

Does your nose feel dry in the wintertime. Do you have to open a window once in a while to "air the house out"? Do you have an "extra long" "sitting corner"? Do you long for the coming of spring? These are just a few of the symptoms that indicate that your present heating system may be letting you down.

Water seeping through cracked slab floor is a problem of this householder, who writes:

My basement floor slab is cracked and leaking. The drain tiles have been cleaned and seem to function well, but water is still seeping in. What can I do to prevent this?

Answer: You mention that the drain tile has been cleaned and seems to be working. If the line from the drain tile to the disposal bed, rock pit or sump also has been checked and found to be in working order and if (in the case where there is no sewer) the disposal bed or rock pit of sufficient size to handle the surcharge, the possibility of water pressure developing under the floor slab and causing further cracking is eliminated.

The cracks in the slab should be worked with a cold chisel to form a "V" shape and filled with waterproof mortar, of which several types are obtainable. One is in the form of a liquid which is mixed with cement to form a mortar and another is in the form of powder, to which water is added.

This latter, powder form, is obtainable as an expanding mortar, which makes for a more positive bond between old and new material.

If any leaking occurs at the joint between the slab and foundation wall, this should be treated in a similar manner.

If the extent of the cracking is feasible, a waterproof membrane may be laid over the existing slab and a three-inch thick concrete topping poured over the entire area. Several types of membrane are available, one of the most economical consisting of two coats of asphalt emulsion. Membrane should be carried up the foundation walls to a point above the new concrete topping.

This method may create some problems at the basement stair, furnace, laundry trays, chimney, cleanout, basement doors and so on, and these points should be carefully considered before the work is begun.

Okanagan milk inspector G. D. Johnson outlines pasteurization program

PENTICTON — George D. Johnson, provincial dairy inspector, Kelowna, and Fred Alcock, sanitarian with the South Okanagan Health Unit, were speakers at the quarterly meeting of the health board held at Oliver.

Mr. Johnson spoke on the pasteurization of milk. Many people object to pasteurization by saying that it destroys the flavor of milk, and they miss the "cream line" on the bottle.

Mr. Johnson claimed that if pasteurization is done properly the milk thus treated cannot be told from raw milk. He mentioned the two methods: first where the milk is raised to a temperature of 143-145 degrees F. and held it there for 30 minutes; the second way produces the same results but is quicker. In this it is raised to 161 degrees F. and kept there for 16 seconds. This is called the "holding method."

CERTIFIED HERD
Although Ontario and Saskatchewan have province-wide compulsory pasteurization the only places in British Columbia which have it are Greater Vancouver, New Westminster, Trail and Cranbrook.

A certified herd means that the animals are registered under the individual brand and free of Bangs disease and of TB. Milk from the herd could be contaminated. Milk from Grade A farms could also be contaminated. Mr. Johnson feels strongly that pasteurization is the only safe way to handle milk.

Mr. Alcock spoke of the dangers inherent in the lack of meat inspection and the fact that even when it is inspected there is no control over the disposal of carcasses which have been condemned.

Some people buy meat out of an inspection area and put it in frozen food lockers or deep freezers and it may be infected. Game also may be diseased and there is little check on it. It was thought to be imperative that everyone realizes the dangers of contaminated meat and that consumer organizations, women's groups and farmer groups, try to educate people to demand only meat which has been inspected. Mr. Alcock thought that in many cases since cost prices are higher than before the better animals are sent there

Do it yourself

About a year ago we discussed the installation of plastic tiles to bathrooms and kitchen walls. We said then that we deliberately would not talk about putting up ceramic or clay tile—because we felt that it was a job for the professional and not the home handyman. The reason was that ceramic tiles had to be set in beds of mortar applied usually over metal lathing. It took real skill and experience to do this kind of job properly, as many an ambitious amateur discovered to his sorrow.

In the year since then, however, things have changed, as they do so often in the fix-it-make-it field. Thanks to the introduction of new adhesives, it now is possible to install ceramic tiles without years of experience in that type of work. There is only one condition that must be met—the wall on which the tile is being applied must be fairly smooth. While it is possible to fill a couple of low spots with a spackling compound, or sand down high spots, no attempt should be made to install ceramic tile on a wall that is really rough or uneven.

Whether the wall is plaster, wood, or wallboard, it should be primed with a coat of shellac, thinned half and half with denatured alcohol.

There are many different kinds of ceramic tiles—and each manufacturer gives detailed instructions on the manner in which his particular product should be applied to the wall. Since there are some differences in the method of handling, it would be pointless for us to give instructions which might not refer to the tile you select.

Be sure when you make your selection, however, that you know exactly what you will run up against. For instance, with most tiles, tiny spaces must be left between them to allow for filling the joints—or grouting.

This usually is done by plating toothpicks between the rows of tiles and removing them later. But, if you want to spend a little more you can buy tiles which have small projections along the edges and thus automatically space themselves. You can buy glazed or unglazed tiles, tiles which must be soaked in water before installation or tiles which can be set dry.

Peachland residents term natural gas as the "next biggest thing to bridge"; possibility of new industries mooted

PEACHLAND—Residents of this municipality term the possibility of the distribution of natural gas as the "next biggest thing to the proposed bridge across Lake Okanagan."

Ratepayers will cast ballots on the natural gas plebiscite next Saturday.

It was pointed out that with a large holding of spruce timber adjacent to the municipality, a paper and pulp mill could be in the offing.

The present sawmills which use generally were contacted, and the electricity could convert to natural results were 92 percent in favor, gas, with a saving in operating costs. The fruit industry which had an opportunity to read details ships a considerable tonnage to can- of the gas bylaw as published in neries could well hope for a local the last issue of The Courier, 7 cannery and of course the residents percent; no comment at this time, could hope for a clean, cheap fuel for cooking and heating.

Section 191 of the municipal act calls for a three-fifths majority. It can be assumed that a good representative vote must be recorded if residents expect to be "cooking with gas" by 1957.

Efforts are being made to get a grocery stores, hotel and citizens good turnout at the polls.
